ROOSEVELT PLANS LAW TO AID BIG FAMILIES PASTOR SUED FOR $25,000 BY GIRL WHO ELOPED WITH HIM

BORAH DENOUNCES BIG EXPENDITURE ON INAUGURATION

Declares It Is No Time to Spend a Million for Great Display.

KNOX OPPOSES HIM.

Senator Fletcher Says He Does Not Believe Harding Wants It.

(Special from Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The assertion by Senator Borah, that the Harding inauguration will cost the taxpayers a million dollars at a time when the country needs to practice economy as never before, precipitated a lively discussion in the Senate today. The subject was brought up by a resolution appropriating $50,000 to erect a stand for Government officials and their guests in front of the Capitol, where the oath is administered at the incoming President.

Senator Borah read newspaper accounts from Marion, following the visit of members of the inaugural committee to the President-elect, saying that the Harding inauguration will be "the most dazzling on record." "At this time," said the Idaho Senator, "the country has $24,000,000,000 of war indebtedness hanging over it, $4,000,000,000 of current expenses and we have a $2,000,000,000 treasury deficiency staring us in the face. The business men of the country and those men who are supposed to be men of special competency are worried over how they are to raise the money to pay their taxes."

"It is not merely the $50,000 which is proposed to be appropriated by this resolution, but it is the psychology of the public mind. We should consider the facts at home."

"The newspaper article I have seen that Senator Harding was originally in favor of a simple programme, but has been converted to the idea that he should permit a celebration that gives the most pleasure to the most people and accommodation for the greatest number of people."

"I know that when this thing is over and the bills are presented here and when the expenses of the various States are taken into consideration I predict that they will represent an expense of a million dollars to the country."

Senator Knox, Chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Appropriations, took up the fight for the appropriation.

"When we started out we had but one lamp to guide us and that was to find out what the custom was in these matters," said he. "I have taken some trouble since this matter came up to go back as far as 1817 and I find that from that day to now Congress of its own volition has taken

U. S. Admiral to Adopt Seven Little Russians

McCully Brings Orphans From Sebastopol and Will Give Them His Name.

Seven little Russians, all of whom are to be legally adopted by Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully, U. S. N., and live with him at his beautiful home in Washington, arrived with him and a nurse this morning on the U. S. Collier Ramapo, which came in from Brest and the Near East.

Admiral McCully has been United States High Commissioner at Sebastopol, and it was while on that mission that he decided to give these children all the benefits of American life at its best.

Consider the present names of the children: Nimitzka Rashidulay, five years old, Anastasia Shertatova, ten, Nimitzka Kamenko, three, Landina Manetzkaya, eleven, Nina Furman, ten, Fedor Pasko, four, and Nikola Surov, twelve. And all those names are to be changed to McCully as soon as the legal papers can be made out.

It was necessary as a matter of form to remove the children to Ellis Island temporarily as soon as they arrived, but Admiral McCully went with them and said he would remain with them until their release.

"Five of them are orphans," he said, "one has only a mother and one has only a father. The parents were only too glad of the opportunity offered their children. I shall give them my name and they shall never have occasion to regret the change."

Admiral McCully is a bachelor, fifty-three years old, and is considered one of the handsomest officers in the navy. His home at No. 1821 I Street, Washington, is cared for by his niece.

The children who are to live there will be busy for a while with private English lessons, in which the Admiral himself expects to take a hand, and afterward they will be educated at the Washington public schools.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 4.—The residence of J. P. Carter, a wealthy resident of Hillside Road, was broken into last night and all solid silverware stolen from the dining room. The loss is estimated at more than $1,000. An entrance was forced through a dining room window.

U. S. WILL PAY ALL EXPENSES OF LOST NAVY BALLOONISTS

Unnecessary for Friends to Raise Funds, Say Navy Department Officials.

(Special from Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Navy Department officials professed surprise today at reports that the search for the balloonists lost in the Canadian woods had to be conducted on funds subscribed by their friends. It was stated at the department that immediately after it became known that the big balloon had gone astray the Canadian Government, as well as all other agencies, were invoked. The Canadian authorities were asked to aid in finding the lost officers, it is said, and to take care of them, financially and otherwise, with the understanding that they would be reimbursed for expenses.

The Commandant of the Third Naval District, under whose jurisdiction the missing officers were, was directed to go ahead and locate these men regardless of the expense, Navy Department officials said.

Admiral Thomas Washington, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, said he could not understand why some of the lost naval officers had to wire friends unless it was because officers sometimes find it possible to get

SUES ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Brother of New Brunswick, N. J., Police Chief Seeks $25,000.

SUM for $25,000 damages against the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey was started today by James A. O'Connell of New Brunswick, brother of Chief of Police Michael O'Connell of that city. The action will be tried in April.

O'Connell, a realty operator, quotes the American Isaac, published at Westerville, O., for the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, as containing in its December issue a charge that "Michael O'Connell, Chief of Police, has a brother who is an all-around bootlegger" and making attacks upon the honesty of both men. O'Connell declares his statement refers to him, as he is the only brother of the Chief of Police.

GIRL WHO ELOPED WITH PASTOR SUES HIM FOR $25,000

Miss Hanenberg Says Densel Promised to Get Divorce and Marry Her.

FRAUD ALSO CHARGED

Plaintiff Assests Minister Put Ring on Finger and Said "Wed Before God."

The Rev. Cornelius Densel, formerly pastor of the First Netherlands Reformed Church at Passaic, N. J., was arrested at his home there today on a civil warrant in a $25,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Trina Hanenberg, a former member of the church.

The story of the elopement of the minister and the girl and their dramatic return and confession to the church consistory has been told before. But a new chapter is written into the record through the complaint of the girl in her suit for damages.

She now sets forth that between Nov. 12 and Dec. 8, 1920—the period in which she and the minister were absent from their homes—he repeatedly promised to marry her.

She says she knew, of course, that he was already married and the father of several children, but she says he told her he was getting a divorce and would marry her as soon as it was legally possible.

Miss Hanenberg alleges fraud in that Mr. Densel deceived her with a promise of marriage and defrauded of character. She says he put a wedding ring on her finger, and told her they were "married before God," and the civil ceremony would take place soon, according to the papers.

Densel was at his home, No. 121 Park Place, Passaic, when two Sheriff's Deputies called there this morning with the warrant. They took him to Paterson to be brought before Court Commissioner Peter J. McGinnis, who had signed the warrant. Bail was fixed at $1,500, which Densel furnished, and was released.

On Nov. 22 last the congregation of the church was startled to learn that the pastor had disappeared and that Miss Hanenberg, who had once been a servant in his home, had also gone.

A little later there came a letter to the church trustees from the pastor offering his resignation both as minister and as a member, and asking forgiveness.

On Dec. 9 he and the girl came back together and went in separate taxicabs to their homes. The pastor was received with forgiveness by his wife, and then went to the church, where there was a meeting of the consistory. He made a dramatic confession and asked for the prayers of the members.

A number of the members wrung his hand and wept with him. Still later he made application for reinstatement as a member, but not as pastor. The girl also asked reinstatement as a member. Both applications are pending.

RAND AND KRESEL U. S. PROSECUTORS IN HOUSING INQUIRY

N. Y. Lawyers Named as Special Assistants for National Investigation.

CITY'S PROBE GOES ON.

Mayor Wants to Know Brindell's Relations With Dock Builders' Association.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Appointment of William Rand and Isadore J. Kresel of New York as special assistants in the building trades investigation, both in New York and elsewhere, was announced today by Attorney General Palmer. Mr. Kresel was recently named special assistant by Mr. Palmer to handle the prosecution of the Chicago packers.

Col. Rand said today that he had not received any official notification of his designation as a special United States Attorney. Mr. Kresel is in Washington.

Mayor Hylan instructed Assistant Corporation Counsel Carwell at today's Board of Estimate inquiry into city contractors to determine if Robert P. Brindell's relations were with members of the Contracting Dock Builders' Association, a number of whom are erecting $17,000,000 worth of piers for the city. The Mayor's instructions were issued after Bernard Roff, representing the Riverside Contracting Company, had testified that he recently joined the association of contractors. He was the successful bidder on a $3,318 pier removal job in Staten Island.

"What was your reason for joining the association?" asked Mr. Carwell. "Prices of labor were changing and the independent free lances were not consulted by the union," replied the witness. "I wanted to get some quick information. Two weeks before I got this job started, while I bid on labor at $7.60 a day, I found out that the price was to be $8."

"This is the association which dealt with the Dock Builders' Union that Brindell was the head, of course?" asked Mr. Carwell.

"Yes," replied Mr. Roff.

"Did you have any dealings with Brindell?"

"I used to have dealings with him every few weeks in the early stages of the game."

In answer to a question of Mayor Hylan the witness said the association of dock building contractors was comprised of about twenty or twenty-five contractors who do work around the New York Harbor.

Later Mr. Roff was asked if the agreement between the Dock Contractors' Association and the Dock

OLD EARTH YAWNED AS WOMEN TALKED

It Was Some Yawn and Separated the Talkers About 25 Feet.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—Mother Earth apparently tired of the backyard conversation between Mrs. John J. and a neighbor.

She yawned.

It was a capacious yawn, taking in Mrs. Jeffries and most of the backyard.

The neighbor clinging to the pailings on her side of the fence, suddenly found herself looking down on Mrs. Jeffries where she sprawled twenty-five feet below. The roof of an old mill had tumbled in.

Mrs. Jeffries only slightly injured, crawled out on a ladder.

EXEMPTION ON INCOME TAX FOR EACH CHILD IS FIXED AT $600 UNDER NEW BILL

Assemblyman Roosevelt Has Measures for Legislature to Aid Large Families.

NEW DWELLING LAW.

Misdemeanor for Landlord to Refuse to Rent to Family Because of Little Ones.

ALBANY, Jan. 4.—Assemblyman Theodore Roosevelt of Nassau County has ready for introduction a bill increasing the income tax exemption for each child in a family from $300 to $600.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt the other was an outspoken advocate of big families as a matter of Americanization. He was prouder of nothing than of the good natured rallying to which his propaganda against race-suicide brought from his admirers and opponents alike.

Assemblyman Roosevelt also has in preparation a bill making the refusal of a landlord to rent a dwelling or an apartment because of children in the family of the prospective tenant a misdemeanor.

He will also bring up again the minimum wage bill for women and children which he supported last year. His failure to obtain its passage this year was made the basis for an attack on him by the League of Women Voters and it had been supposed that their repudiation of him at the polls would be followed by a loss of his interest in their pet measure.

"I did not advocate the bill for the sake of getting votes," he said today. "I shall not stop advocating it because I failed to get the votes of other supporters of the measure."

The Socialist Assemblymen have given notice that they will give over their advocacy of legalizing birth control in favor of State endowment for mothers increasing with the birth of each child.

SPENT $40,000,000 FOR POLES, SAYS REED

Senator Declares Money Used Was Appropriated for Relief Work in Europe.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Forty millions of the $150,000,000 appropriated by Congress for Europe relief was spent "to keep the Polish army in the field," Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, declared today in the Senate during a Government economy discussion.

Senator Reed said he had documents in his office to support his statement and he promised to discuss them at length later.

Commerce Senator Reed said, gave the $40,000,000 into the hands of "a single gentleman," whom the Missouri Senator did not name.

"This same gentleman with unblinking effrontery," the Senator continued, "tells us in a report that he spent $40,000,000 for the support of the Polish Army which was engaged in a war we never authorized and with a nation with which we were at profound peace."

CARUSO STILL IMPROVING.

Fever Lower and Condition Satisfactory, Doctors Report.

Enrico Caruso's condition continues to improve. The following bulletin was issued at noon today by the six attending physicians:

"Mr. Caruso is progressing favorably. His fever is lower and his general condition is satisfactory."

Mr. and Mrs. Park Benjamin Jr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard and Romeny Benjamin, relatives of Mrs. Caruso, who took rooms in the Hotel Vanderbilt to be near the singer at the crisis of his illness, have returned to their homes.

BANDITS HOLD UP WOMAN AGENT IN SUBWAY STATION

Two B. R. T. Passengers Also Robbed at 56th Street and 7th Avenue.

DEATH THREATS MADE.

Victim Forced at Points of Revolvers to Open Door of Booth to Thieves.

New York's bandits has resumed sensational operations. Two hold-ups were staged early today—one resulting in a successful haul from a B. R. T. subway ticket booth and the other resulting in the stabbing of a man who refused to be robbed.

Two well-dressed youths, about nineteen years of age, stopped to the ticket booth of the B. R. T. subway station at 56th Street and Seventh Avenue, Manhattan, at 12:20 o'clock this morning. Addressing himself to Mrs. Ada Hoover, the ticket agent, one of the youths remarked:

"Now, don't get excited, young lady. We are only going to relieve you of the company's money. If you make an outcry we'll shoot you."

Mrs. Hoover was inclined to treat the matter as a practical joke but when she saw the youths flash revolvers she was convinced of the realness of the affair. She started to reach for a telephone when one of the hold-up men thrust a revolver menacingly through the grill-work of the ticket window and gruffly spoke:

"I've warned you. If you make another move I'll blow your brains out."

DROPPED THE MONEY INTO A BLACK BAG.

When Mrs. Hoover had half-conscious the robbery seemed out area through the window and ran off in the bills and coins from the desk in front of her. The money was dropped into a black bag held by the other robber. The robbers then demanded that Mrs. Hoover open the door to the booth that they might get into the cash drawer.

The rumble of a train in the tunnel twenty feet below interrupted the operations of the robbers. They listened for a time and finding that no one ascended they renewed their demands that the door be opened and Mrs. Hoover complied. One of the robbers entered the booth and removed $5 from the drawer. Altogether they took $28.38.

As the robbers were departing from the station they encountered two men who had attended a musical affair at Carnegie Hall. One of the robbers covered them with a revolver and ordered "hands up." The men complied and were relieved of their valuables by the man with the black bag. They then walked out into the night. The two robbers men, glad to escape with their lives, did not give their names.

MRS. HOOVER WARNED NOT TO DISCUSS THE ROBBERY.

Mrs. Hoover, when she realized that the robbers had departed, came out of her booth and told Charles Griffith of No. 457 East 24th Street what had happened. He called the police. An hour and a half later a police automobile with patrolmen and detectives arrived on the scene and warned Mrs. Hoover not to discuss the robbery.

After giving the detectives a good description of the robbers Mrs. Hoover went to her home, No. 674 Degraw Street, Brooklyn.

"I thought they were joking at first, but when one of the men stuck a revolver down to my face I realized that they were desperate men," was the statement of Mrs. Hoover when
